Tech Report: Buyer Beware

Mr. Henahan has noticed a disturbing trend this year where some PC's running Windows 10 call themselves "Cloud Ready" or something similar and come with very small hard drives. These devices are mimicking the look and feel of a Chromebook. The problem is they are using Windows 10 as the Operating System and the hard drives are only 32GB, not enough space to run a Windows Operating System. Right out of the box there is only 8GB of free space on the entire hard drive. Windows machines require several updates and within 1 to 2 years this hard drive will be completely full, even if you don't put any new programs, etc. on the device. At that point the device becomes useless and nothing can be done to change that short of wiping out the hard drive and putting another Operating System on the device like Linux. So please don't buy a Windows PC with less than a 60GB hard drive! A 60GB hard drive might last 3 years, but a 250GB hard drive would last all 4 and more for sure.
